Unique Costumes Plus Best Behavior Scheduled For BYU 'Cougar Cubs' As Seniors Plan Hectic Frosh Week

Blue and white beanies, always the mark of the well-dressed Brigham Young University freshman, will be in vogue on the campus Monday, as one of the largest freshman classes in BYU history begins Cougar Cub week.

Freshman beanies with the student's name printed on the brim must be worn, along with one blue and one white sock, according to Dean Holmes, cub week chairman. Boys will wear their trouser legs rolled up to better display the pretty socks.

Freshly-scrubbed faces, unmarred by make-up, will be shown by all freshman girls, and freshman boys must carry shoe-shining kits.

'Great Season' Promised For Theatre Plays

"A great season of great plays," is the way Dr. Harold I. Hansen, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic arts, describes the coming season of the Brigham Young University Theatre.

Three types of productions will be presented this year. Dr. Hansen states. The major season, consisting of eight plays, will again be presented in the Smith auditorium. In addition, there will be three plays presented in College Hall in an experimental theatre. The venture. Three plays will also be presented in arena style. Place of production of these plays will be determined later.

"Arsenic" Chosen
"Arsenic and Old Lace" has been chosen as the first production of the major season and will be presented October 14-17. Other major season productions include Shakespeare's "Richard III" and "Taming of the Shrew," as well as "A Sleep of Prisoners," "The Skin of our Teeth," "On Borrowed Time," an original script by Dr. Hansen, and a presentation by an imported company.

Dates for productions have been listed as November 17, December 23, January 13-16, February 10-13, March 31-April 3, April 14-17, and May 18.

Tryouts Tomorrow
Tryouts for the second play will be held tomorrow from 7:30 p.m. and Saturday from 11 a.m. on, in the Speech Center. All interested students should contact Dr. Hansen at one of these times for reading appointments.

Again this year, students will be admitted to major season productions with their activity cards. Townspeople may purchase season books for $4.50 or individual tickets for 75 cents. The season book sale will be conducted in downtown Provo beginning Saturday and will run through October 13.

Staff Listed
The staff for this year's University Theatre productions consists of Dr. Hansen, Dr. Preston R. Gledhill, and Prof. Morris Clinger, directors; Verne Shaffer, stage designer; Bob Struthers, technical director; Bill Demas and Peter Hulse, assistants; Gayle Hall Bishop, costumes; and Barbara Lynn West, business office.

Dr. Hansen emphasized that theatre productions are for all interested students—not merely speech students.

LOOKING TOWARD CAMPUS IMPROVEMENTS—Plans for extensive improvements in campus and building facilities are now on the architects drawing boards. The above

Varsity Committee Lists Annual Show Tryouts

The production of the all-student "Varsity Show of 1963" has just been announced by the executive council.

It is an original production with words and music by Linda Worley and book by Ronald Wilson. Lead, dancing, and chorus parts are available as well as positions on the production staff.

Anyone interested is invited to audition at room 209 in the Joseph Smith building, Thursday from 1:30-4 p.m., Friday 1:30-4 p.m., and Saturday 9-12 a.m. and 1-4 p.m.

Conference Set For Weekend

Friday, Saturday and Sunday have been scheduled as dates for the 124th semi-annual conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in the Salt Lake Tabernacle.

Brigham Young University students will not be excused from classes on Friday, but they have been invited to attend sessions over the weekend.

The Saturday evening Priesthood session will be related to the fieldhouse by television. Those who attend should be in their seats by 7 p.m.

In conjunction with the all-Church conference, missionary reunions will be held both Friday and Saturday nights.

All regular conference sessions will start at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m.

PREPARATIONS FOR FROSH WEEK—Fred Dixon, senior, gives freshmen Gary Lloyd and El Fuller a taste of what is in store for them and other freshmen during the coming festivities of Cougar cub week, which will begin Monday.

Campus Facilities Undergo Building, Renovating Work

Several new buildings, additions to buildings, and improved street facilities are either under construction or soon will be on the campus, reported Ben E. Lewis, head of the building department.

Navy Band Slated For Appearance In Y Fieldhouse

The United States Navy Band has slated two concerts Thursday at 3 p.m. and at 8 p.m. in the fieldhouse.

Prior to the evening performance are $1.50 for reserved seats and $1 for general admission. Matinee tickets are 80 cents. Tickets may be obtained in the fieldhouse, in the music department, at Utah Office Supply, and at the Chamber of Commerce.

Conductor Lt. Commander Charles Brundler and over 100 individual artists, sponsored by the Provo Chapter of Commerce and BYU, will present many famed compositions in their performances. By special request, the band is planning to play the "Cougar Pep Song."

The Provo performance, expected to attract concert-goers from many parts of the state, will open the 1963 western tour of the Navy Band.

panation program at BYU.

One of the buildings under construction will be for motion picture productions and is located behind the Speech department. This building should be completed within six weeks, said Mr. Lewis.

Work is expected to begin this fall to black top the arena to the north and south of the Student Service Center, near the fieldhouse, and near the Social Hall. In conjunction with these street and parking improvements, street lighting facilities are soon to be installed.

Mr. Lewis also reported that work will start this week in the fieldhouse to install 2,000 additional seats, a new ticket office in the lobby, and a photographer's booth on the east side.

There are tentative plans and work should start this fall on five new tennis courts, but these recreation facilities are not expected to be completed until next spring. It was not reported exactly where these courts will be located, but Mr. Lewis said they will probably be near the fieldhouse.

Plans have been completed and bids will be taken within the next few days for a new classroom building which is to be constructed atop the hill across from the Science building.

On the architect's drawing board are plans for the greenhouse which will be located just off Eighth North. Mr. Lewis stated that this building would be used for agronomy, horticulture, botany, and by the landscape architects.

Plans are also being drawn for a warehouse, an addition to the heating plant, a family life building, stadium rest rooms, a health center and a men's dorm. Construction on some of these buildings will begin next spring.

Y Yearbook Urges Pix Appointments

All students who did not secure an appointment for their Banyan picture are urged to make one. The picture department room 272 P.S. No pictures will be taken without appointment, according to Mary Carter, Banyan editor.

Board of Trustees Plays Top Role In Charting BYU Plans, Policies

by Marian Wilkinson
University Staff Writer

Who governs Brigham Young University? What relationship does this governing body have to the individual student? The Board of Trustees of BYU is the highest governing body of the school. Members of this board consist of the First Presidency of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints plus the Council of Twelve. It is from this board that President Wilkin-son must obtain permission for every major decision or policy that affects Brigham Young University.

Many Problems

The problems that the Board of Trustees must solve are many. How much money should wisely be appropriated for new build-ings? How can the school ac-commodate the increasing num-ber of students wanting to come to the Y? What policy should the University take regarding ath-letics? How can the school best prepare students for service in the Church and leadership in the world?

The board also does other things. It interviews and makes specific rulings regarding Uni-versity procedures. For example, the board has made the two fol-lowing rules: first, all under-graduate students must include in their curriculum one class per quarter in religion, and sec-ond, all students are required to take at least one class in Amer-ican history.

Real Responsibility

Faced with these ever-present problems, the board appropri-ates or decides not to appropriate money requested by the school.

At present, the Board of Trustees is vitally concern- ed with two things—that of intensi- fying religious and character training and of improving aca- demic standards.

The task of directing a school of more than 6,500 full-time stu- dents is a real responsibility. Nevertheless, the members of this board bring to this task much energy, a determination to do the correct thing, and a vision of the future of BYU.

Wide Experience

They are men of wide varying experiences. Six of them have been educators (Presidents Mc- Key, Richards, and Clark, and Elders Lee, Moyle, and Bennion). Five of them have been lawyers (Presidents Richards and Clark, and Elders Moyle, Cowley, and Romney). One was a newspaper editor (Elder Peterson). One is a historian and author (Elder Joseph Fielding Smith). Elder Benson is an authority on agriculture.

All of the members of the board are married and together with their wives have raised a total of 25 children. All of them possess keen intellects. Some of them have achieved what is called "worldly success." Some of them have not. But no matter what their circumstances, they all have achieved a calling to de- vote their lives in service to their Church and to their fellow men.

Complete Support

That the members of the Board of Trustees are completely sup- porting Brigham Young Univer- sity is evidenced by the amount of money they have appropri- ated for the school during the past few years. In addition to the annual operating appropria- tions, they have authorized cap- ital expenditures for buildings of approximately $10,000,000. This money is derived principally from the payment of tithes by church members throughout the world. For every dollar a stu- dent pays at Brigham Young University, the Church, as auth- orized by the Board of Trustees, contributes at least three dollars. Such are the problems con- fronting the BYU Board of Trus- tees, charged with the responsi- bility of seeing that your school operates efficiently and effective- ly in a time of unprecedented growth.

Class To Conduct Opinion Surveys

If you should be button-holed one of these days by an interviewer asking your opinions on the state of the nation, don't be dismayed. It's all in the cause of education.

Students in the journalism department's class in public opinion polls and surveys, will conduct during the quarter a number of surveys on questions of local and national interest. Interviews will be made both on the campus and in the surrounding communities.

Commissions For Grads

A total of twenty-one BYU students have now received their commissions into the Air Force through the Y's AFROTC program.

Seven Y students received their commissions after completing summer camp. They are: Willard Lee Fredrickson, Los Angeles; Joe H. Ferguson, Tyler, Texas; Albert Eugene Lyons, Pocatello, Ida.; Robert C. Smith, Malad, Ida.; David Stuckey, Guilford, N. C.; David M. Watson, Honolulu, Hawaii; and Robert W. Ensign, Glendale, Calif.

BYU Professor Appointed To Accrediting Commission

A professor of the Brigham Young University has been appointed to a post of the Accrediting Commission for Business Schools, according to H. D. Hopkins, executive secretary.

Evan M. Croft, chairman of the secretarial training department, was designated examiner of this commission, a division of the National Association and Council of Business Schools. Its purpose is to determine the quality status of institutions which petition for accreditation.

Top figures in the field of business schools throughout the United States comprise the agency, whose headquarters are in Washington, D. C.

Brigham Young UNIVERSITY

FOR THE FUTURE

Brigham Young University's student government has been undergoing an accelerated change during the past year, and with these changes have arisen problems—as always.

One of the major difficulties encountered in any change is the fear among affected groups that their rights and their liberties are being curtailed. Most people are inclined to prefer the status quo to any change, no matter how necessary.

In an effort to obtain better, faster, and more accurate information on the comings and goings of the student body, the executive council has recently made an effort to define lines of authority. It has attempted to place all officially sanctioned organizations into a well coordinated organizational scene.

As a result of this action, organizations which have always felt themselves more or less separated from the University, as represented by the Executive Council, have been asked to furnish information on their activities.

It is neither the aim nor the desire of the Executive Council to take over the government of any campus organization. It is not the aim of the Council to dictate policy, except in cases where individual action may affect the University as a whole. It is the aim of the Council to become informed on the activities of all organizations representing BYU.

THE NEW LOOK

Take a good look at this issue of the Universe. Notice anything different about it? To the freshmen it probably has the same appearance of the last two issues and in some ways it does.

However, students not new at BYU this year should be cognizant of a new look permeating every page. You may not realize it but it is easier for you to read and every story has an inviting appearance of which you may not be aware.

The reason, if you will scrutinize closely, is that the black lines between the columns of type have been removed and a white space left. This is called pulling the line-ruled and is in accordance with the modernizing steps taken by your campus newspaper to make it more readable and interesting.

And that isn't all. Designed to blend with and catch the spirit of the modern trend, the front page nametag along with the inside society and sports nametags have been changed.

An observant student is aware that the Gothic letter style with the shaded background has been scrapped in preference of a new ultra-modern script, which makes the name of the paper outstanding on the page.

All of these improvements as well as others in the offering are geared to give you, the student, a Brigham Young University which is interesting, readable and informative.

YOUR UNIVERSITY

An informed student is an outstanding student. While the above statement may not always hold true, it is certainly the case with the BYU student who is aware of the working segments and organization of his university.

A list given last year to Legislative Council members revealed that even members of the student government are woefully lacking in knowledge of university organization and government. Through the efforts of the Executive Council every member now has to pass a test in order to be on the Legislative council.

In spite of the forward strides taken, the major portion of the student body, particularly the new students, do not know who and what makes Brigham Young University tick.

It is with this problem in mind that the University has undertaken the project of acquainting all students with BYU. On page two of this issue is the first in the series of articles designed to fulfill this purpose.

Beginning with the article about the Board of Trustees, the top rung of the BYU ladder, the series will continue down the ladder to President Wilkinson, then to the Dean of Students, the Student Coordinator, the Executive Council and on through the complete organization.

The student who carefully follows this series should be in a good position to be of service to himself and BYU.

Troubles All Over . . .

Dear Editor:
It may be a little early in the year to start criticizing, but I've got a bone.

Firstly, who or what dreamed up the numbering system, at the new family living unit?

This is my story. It was 7:13 p.m.—my date was at 7:15. I approached the village from the south and there was unit No. 10 on the corner. My destination was unit No. 11. At 7:20 I was into the middle of the village trying to find the numbers on the buildings. For some strange reason it seems that eight comes after five and then before eight under this new numbering system.

At 7:30 I went back to headquarters for instructions. They located a girl who lived in the village who gave directions for finding No. 11.

Finally at 7:40 I checked into No. 11. My girl was still putting on her face. Seventy-five, got started for town.

Back to the village at 10:00—golf playing it safe on the fourteenth hole. I realized that there were lights—hundreds of them—little ones, big ones, in the background. Everywhere there were lights.

Being subject to heat stroke, I looked for a shady spot—but there wasn't a dark corner in the whole 40 acres.

At 10:15 p.m. I gave up and sent my gal. In just before I left, a girl tried to make a break for it, but she was caught before going half a block.

This was a tough case. Come on someone, sort out the buildings and turn down a few of the thousand watts.

A Great Summer

By Arthur Hardy

It was a great summer—this summer of the year we call 1933. Beginning in June and just now ending, this summer was an encouraging one for the U.S. True, we lost one of our most able senators—Robert Taft to cancer, and Chief Justice Vinson succumbed to a heart attack. Nevertheless, events tumbled into encouraging pattern—the temporary and possibly permanent fading of Communist world conquest.

Disregard Expressed

In June, we expressed our disregard for Communist propaganda by executing the atom spies: the Germans shattered the myth of Utopia, supposed to exist in the "people's democracies"—they fought Russian tanks with their bare hands; defied guns with stones. Hunger proved a forceful weapon in the fight to keep tyranny waiting its own backyard, rather than fomenting unrest in others' frontyards. President Eisenhower displayed a grasp of modern diplomacy, when he sent free food to the hungry East-Germans. So successful were the "Eisenhower packages" that the Russians used force to keep the food out of east-Germany.

An amusing incident will demonstrate the true status of the East-German people: democracy; a newspaper editor, after writing scathing denunciations of the Eisenhower packages was arrested. Concealment of three Eisenhower packages in his own wardrobe.

War Became Truce

Over in Korea, the war became a truce, but the mess remained. In Russia, the expected death-struggle between up-and-coming Big Brothers Malenkov and Beria was over before most people thought it had really started. Beria was removed, leaving only one candidate for Stalin's Big Brother job. Iran, seemingly, escaped being pulled behind the Iron Curtain, when the Teheran mob jerked the bed out from under Mossadegh.

As the summer cooled into fall, the West-Germans gave the idea of a united Europe a big boost and proved they wanted neither, the extreme right, nor left, as they voted Adenauer back into office. Here in our own country, Kinsey reported on the female, and harmony among the democrats, and generally U.S. citizens enjoyed the greatest prosperity in the history of the world.

Summer of 1963

A cynic could say, in this summer of 1963, that the world was following its historic pattern—men are born, they die; they fight and cease fighting; their fortunes are won and lost; their nations rise and fall. He could add that the world was, in its usual way, going to hell.

And he could be right, and should not forget that with the H-bomb, the men in the Kremlin could blast it there in little pieces.

SEATTLE-TACOMA STAKE

A short yet acquainted social and business meeting Friday at 7 p.m. will be held in the Joseph Smith banquet hall preceding the Hello Dance. All Washington students and their guests are invited.

CESTA TIE

A meeting will be held Thursday at 6:30 p.m. All Cestas on campus should attend. The new pins have arrived.

AG CLUB

The Ag Club is having its first meeting Friday in the basement building. Dr. Martin, dean of the college of applied science, will be speaker. Students interested in agriculture are invited.

VIKING

A party at Karl Snow's, 1156 E. Cedar Ave., will be the first Viking affair of the year. It will begin at 8:30 p.m.

TRANSFER STUDENTS

A party for women transfer students will be held some time next week, sponsored by the Associated Women Students. It will be to acquaint transfers with the campus and to appoint one as a member of the AWS senior council.

LAMBDA DELTA SIGMA

Fall quarter open house and rush parties for the Brigham Young University chapter of Lambda Delta Sigma will be held next Wednesday in the Joseph Smith ballroom at 7:30 p.m. Full details will be posted on campus bulletin boards.

All students, both female and male, are invited, but first-quarter freshmen are not eligible to join until winter quarter. All old members and transfer members from other universities are urged to attend.

Lambda Delta Sigma is the official religious-social fraternity of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints. On the BYU campus, there are ten chapters, six for girls, three for fellows, and one for married couples.

'Diamond Jubilee' Set As Regular Column

Know of anyone planned, engaged, or married? Bring the details into the Universe office immediately for the "Diamond Jubilee" column. Include address and phone number of said couple with information.

Starting next week, Social Briefs for social units and service organizations will be published Tuesday and deadline is Friday noon! Those for religious departmental and geographical units will be in Thursday's paper with a Monday noon deadline.

Unit Rushing and Goating Will Begin in Near Future

by Jean Mortimer
Universe Society Writer

Have you ever attended a "Goat Dinner"? Well, you have your chance now. It's part of the fun of initiations for the social units on the campus of Brigham Young University.

Anyone and everyone may join one of these social units—except special students and first quarter freshmen. If we've ever, fresh may investigate and attend the open houses.

There are some necessary steps which should be followed to be accepted into a social unit. On the second Thursday in the quarter, an open house will be held, during which the prospective members will meet others, get acquainted, and sign the register.

Two Rush Parties
During the two weeks following, each social unit is allowed two rush parties. Both rush parties must be completed by the fourth Thursday, and all applications should be in at noon on the fourth Saturday.

A person who will uphold church standards, who can get along well with people, and who can maintain a C or 1.0 grade average, will have no trouble getting into a social unit.

If, after investigating all units, you find that none are suited to you, all you have to do is to organize a new one which suits your taste. . . gather a group of students, and draw up a constitution which a faculty member will approve.

The whole purpose of these social units is to bring people of common interests together.

MEETING IN ORDER—Ken Bacon, Viking social unit president, expresses his viewpoint on one of the matters discussed by the Inter-Organization Council in meeting Monday night.

Council Names Three Members To Central Rushing Committee

The Inter-organizational council, composed of the heads of the various campus organizations, elected three new members to the central committee on rushing activities in its first meeting last Monday evening.

"The council also heard from Dr. Roydon Braithwaite, student coordinator, who charged the group heads to not only maintain the spirit of their individual organizations, but to preserve the spirit of teamwork and cooperation which has characterized IOC. Dr. Braithwaite also voiced the confidence of the administration in the ability of student groups to govern themselves, and regulate their own affairs.

After a short report from Pat Pottery, IOC vice-president, the group heard a report on the Student Program Bureau from Dick Clark, student chairman of the bureau.

Clark emphasized the role of the bureau in publicizing BYU off-campus.

Kent Lloyd, director of off-campus relations on the president's cabinet, told the group of the necessity of maintaining good relations with downtown business establishments.

In the last business of the evening, the council selected LeRoy Hastings, Lynn McBride and Sylvia Tyler to fill vacancies in the central committee on rushing procedures. Hastings fills the affiliated men's vacancy, while McBride and Miss Tyler are the unaffiliated members of the committee. The group is headed by Joan Oregon, who also filled that position last year.

A third-string quarterback named Witherspoon had a Laudable Ambition. He wanted to be first-string quarterback. Particularly to start the opening game under the Admiring Eyes of his Number One Girl. Unfortunately the coach was a Hard Man to Convince. So our hero, undismayed, acquired a Master Plan.

Two weeks before the opening game, the coach got a Telegram. Message—The reason why Witherspoon should be first-string quarterback. First, Witherspoon is resourceful. Witness his approach. . . Each day the coach received a similar Telegrammatic Tribute to the Sterling Qualities and Gracious Powers of Witherspoon, ending on the tenth day with "Witherspoon knows the T-formation to a T. Incidentally, his father is considering sending a new graduate."

Who started Saturday? Our boy, naturally. Did very well, too. Played all season. "Just one of my Funks," the coach murmured modestly when faced in the New Athletics Building.

Nothing puts a point across as convincingly as a Telegram . . . whether we're trying to get a "Tee" out of a Coach, a Check or that Checkbook at home. (Fact—when it comes to prying Pecos out of a Basketball Team, a Telegram is just about the world's Best Cow Part). Whatever your message, it'll Mean More when it goes on the Yellow Blank.

Smith Family Unit To Hold Round-Up

Members of the Smith Cousins Club, descendants of the Utah-Arizona pioneer, Jesse N. Smith, will hold their semi-annual campus roundup at 7:30 p.m. Monday at the Mamvu-Ninth Ward recreation hall, 4th East and 6th North.

Auditions for Review Scheduled For Oct. 8

Auditions for the review "Lovely to Look At" will be held Thursday, Oct. 8, at 6:30 p.m. in room 245 of the Joseph Smith building.

No previous experience is required for auditions and 74 places are open.

Annual Confab On Schedule For Journalists

Journalists from 40 to 50 high schools and junior colleges in the intermountain area will gather on the campus of the Brigham Young University, Saturday, Oct. 31, to attend the 18th annual Journalism Conference, which will be held in the Joseph Smith building. It is estimated by Dr. Oliver Smith, head of the journalism department at the Y, that from 400 to 500 student editors, staff members and advisers will be in attendance.

The conference will begin with a general assembly in the auditorium, followed by departmental workshops which offer practical help to student editors in putting out school papers, magazines and yearbooks. These workshops will be conducted by professional newsmen, advertising men and photographers. At the same time, the publication advisers will hold an "Idea Exchange" combined with the workshop meeting of the Utah Association of Journalism Directors.

A special feature of the day will offer practice in actual news reporting when students will hear a lecture by a well-known person, as yet unknown, interview him or her, write up the interview and send it in to the Y to be judged; awards will be given in a special session for the best news, feature and editorial writing.

On display in the ballroom will be newspapers, literary magazines and yearbooks from the various schools. A prize-winning exhibit, selected by the University of Missouri in a nation-wide competition of newspapers and magazines, will consist of 125 photos.

Opportunities Given For Theatre Work

Anyone who is at all interested in any phase of theatre work should attend an open meeting Monday at 7 p.m. at College Hall, according to Dr. Harold I. Hansen, chairman of the department of speech and dramatic arts.

Those attending will be given full details of how to take part in all theatre work acting and technical. Dr. Hansen said. Those attending will be asked to leave their names, addresses, and phone numbers, for future contacts. Light refreshments will be served.

Dr. Hansen stated that the meeting is open to anyone, regardless of whether or not they have had previous theatre training.

World Series—Same story, New York Yankees versus the Brooklyn Dodgers for the world baseball championship. Same place, Yankee Stadium and Ebbets Field. Same favorites—the Yankees, odds 40-5, and practically the same personnel for both clubs. In fact, if it weren't a different year, you could say, "Same series."

Rocky and Roland

The Rocky Marciano-La Starza fight which the Rock won, proved just how badly the heavyweight ranks are depleted. In the search for talent to someone to do battle with Rocky, Archie Moore, light heavyweight champ, is being considered as top billing. The question is being asked "Is Archie good enough to meet the champ?" Certainly, after all he's only thirty-six and a whopping 175 pounds. How far down is the bottom of that barrel.

Roland La Starza

Deer Hunting, Too

For most of the nation, deer hunting is peaking its antlered head around the corner. In fact, it's not quite a month until opening day with buck fever mounting with the turn of each week. Some of the college men of the various campuses started hunting early—mid-September, to be exact. But were they hunters or the hunted.

Poom?

Oh, the ends they crash and the tackles dash
And the punts, they submarine
The centers rush and the fullbacks crush
And the halfbacks make a scene
But, lo, the wily quarterback
Standing all serene
Gives the ball to someone else
And keeps his jersey clean

Assembly, Ball Ends Hi Week

Traditional "Hi Week" will be climaxed by the annual "Hello Week" assembly and dance sponsored by the Intercollegiate Knights and Y Calcares today and tomorrow.

At 9:25 today, Y students will see what happens when two tramps, portrayed by Lorna Erickson and Virgil Camp, get lost on the Y campus and are subject to college life. Among the talent that they run up against are dance numbers by Brad Powell and RaNa Green, the Deltones, and a group directed by Janie Thompson. Ellen Keeler, Provo, and Brad Powell, Pocatello, are co-chairmen of this first student assembly of the school year.

"Hi-Way of the Y" will theme the dance scheduled for Friday night. All students are requested to wear their "Hi" for a party of drag affair, 25 cents per person, dress is sport, and the intermission program will feature the Deltones. Co-chairmen Jean Jorgensen, Provo, and Kay Baird, Rigby, let it be known that the dance will be held in all three campus-dance floors and will commence at 8:30. Tickets are now on sale in the science ticket booth.

'Hungry' Cougars To Face Lobos In Saturday Clash

Fresh from a near-upset of San Jose last Friday night, the BYU Cougars take to the road this weekend and travel to Albuquerque, N. M., for a game with the University of New Mexico Lobos.

The Y coaching staff scouted the game last Saturday in which the Lobos lost a close one to Utah State by a score of 6-0, and according to head coach Chick Atkinson, the Lobos are very strong defensively but are lacking in offensive drive, although they run from single wing and spread formations, which are Coach Bob Tichenall's favorites.

The Cats will leave Provo Friday afternoon and will fly to Albuquerque for a practice session Friday night to acclimatize themselves to the New Mexico air.

One of the Lobos' biggest threats to BYU will be big Dick Lauderdale, a 6 ft 3 in., 210 lb. junior tackle. This boy is a left-hander from last year's squad and is really reaching his prime, according to all reports.

On the Cougar side of the ledger, there remains intact the squad that nearly upset San Jose. Paul Koehner, center, and Don Wood, halfback, were injured, but they have recovered and will be ready for action against New Mexico.

An interesting sidelight on the San Jose-BYU game, according to Coach Atkinson, were the remarks of President John Wahlquist and Coach Bob Brannan of San Jose, which were made in the dressing rooms following the game. President Wahlquist made the statement that San Jose had always had good relations with BYU and that the game had been the closest and best conducted game that San Jose had participated in.

This hustling BYU team is one Coach Atkinson hopes will down New Mexico, even though the football game will be the climaxing affair of New Mexico State Fair and the Lobos will be high and ready.

Prognostications...

Scribes Take Chance

In the best newspaper tradition the sports department of the Universe felt it, too, must have its pre-game prediction. Yes, we try anything, so read on. Who knows, we might even come close.

Naturally, the biggest game is the Cougar-Lobo foray. We pick the Cougars by 13 markers. After the team's showing of last week we feel real safe with this prediction. Shall we proceed?
